

To help congregations think about their multicultural welcome, we've developed a Multicultural Ministry Toolkit. The areas covered in the toolkit include welcome and hospitality; overcoming barriers; leadership; intergenerational concerns; mission planning; theology, spirituality and the Bible; meetings; and rites of passage. [£4]

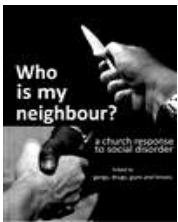

Celebrating cultural diversity and living hospitality, We Belong “is a way of equipping us to enjoy [human] diversity and make us see our faith from a different angle... To walk in the direction which God intends we may have to be reminded of the route by meeting a stranger on the road. Then we may arrive at where we really belong.” (The Revd Dr Stephen Orchard, 2006). [£4 (participants) £6 (facilitators)]

Strangers No More is a transformative racism awareness training manual which has five themes that encourage and challenge participants to consider racial justice more positively and to explore strategies for change. [£5]

Workers for the Harvest is a course for those wishing to run and facilitate sessions and workshops in racial justice and multicultural issues with church groups and community groups. It offers leadership and guidance in equipping others and to help devise strategies for promoting racial justice. [£5]

This report is an expression of our churches' deep concern about negative gang-related social disorder and violent crimes; their effects upon society at large, particularly the young; and the perspectives of the churches on and contributions to finding solutions.

This is a significant study on mapping migration and its impact on the changing ecclesial landscape in Europe. This full report is available online
