

Chronicles 7:14 – When things aren't right

When we see that people are not looking after the world, we can say sorry to God for the things we get wrong and ask God to help us make a difference.

It might be fun to make some suncatchers to remind us of the earth, especially as we move into spring and hope to start seeing a bit more of the sun! This activity might take a few days. Dip a piece of string into some PVA glue, wipe off any excess with your fingers (this is fun to pull off your fingers when it dries!) and place it in a circle on a piece of baking paper/greaseproof paper. Make sure the ends of the string meet. Lay a length of cotton thread across the circle and form a loop at the top. Now pour some PVA glue in the centre of the circle and spread it out to touch the edges. Put some drops of blue and of green paint on and swirl them into the glue with a cocktail stick or cotton bud. Leave to dry – this may take several days – then peel your 'earth' off the paper and find somewhere to hang it where it can catch the sunlight.

A prayer for when you feel sad about the world

God, people haven't looked after your world very well. Help us do a bit better. Amen

2 Chronicles 7:14 When things aren't right

If my people, who are called by my name, will humble themselves and pray and seek my face and turn from their wicked ways, then I will hear from heaven, and I will forgive their sin and will heal their land.

I wonder what kind of things stop people taking good care of God's earth?
