

Day 2, many gripes, many gags

URC Youth are here to spill the beans on all the General Assembly drama, and gossip all while narrowly avoiding libel lawsuits.

Jeremy

SHE'S THE FOUNDER, HE'S JUST KEN

GAG is looking at setting up a support group for the husbands that just volunteer at the community projects which are led by their wives, such as Ken from The Barn Community Cafe.

Your input hasn't gone unnoticed and we're here for you. GAG invites Mark Robinson, the First Gentleman of the URC to convene this group.

WE <3 JOHN MARSH

GAG is delighted that Karen's time travel to 2004 has unearthed such URC treasures from the past such as "Ancient Past Moderator" John Marsh. If John could make himself known to the Chief journalist, we have some questions about the Roman Empire.

FAITHLESS ASSEMBLY

Following the secretary for ministries' saddening declaration that she has lost Faith, GAG recommends resources from the URC Bookshop for rediscovering not only Faith, but also Hope and Love.

101 Things to do at GA

35. Watch the Euros Final
36. Skip the remaindered business to watch the Euros final
37. Thank the tea ladies
38. Buy your under 26 rep another drink
39. Locate the spot with the best WiFi
40. Buy the person who lives in the room opposite you a drink (bonus points if it's an under 26 rep)
41. Find the sports hall
42. Find the craziest thing to put in the slot to activate the lighting in you room
43. Teach the tellers how to figure out two thirds
44. Ask a question for unclarification and disinformation
45. Watch the Wimbledon men's final
46. Find the young person with the key to the club house
47. Ask stupid questions in the information phase
48. Apply to be South Western's CYDO
49. Ask an under 26 rep what year they were born
50. Feel old
51. Watch the live stream even though you're in the room
52. Compliment the Chief Journalists of GAG
53. Ask more stupid questions in the discussion phase
54. Attend the air hockey competition in the clubhouse (behind "main conference hall") instead of watching the euros final
55. Complain about the weather at least once a day
56. Tell someone about the spot with the best WiFi
57. Watch the Indycar
58. Take a picture with a member of Youth Exec
59. Apply to be West Midlands CYDO
60. Feel young
61. Complain to Andy Jackson that he hasn't found URC rubber ducks yet
62. Put your Do Not Disturb hanger on someone else's door
63. Watch the Tour de France highlights instead of the euros final
64. Figure out which button to press in the lift
65. Wave at a live stream camera
66. Watch the Shanghai Masters Snooker instead of the euros final
67. Offset your carbon emissions from your journey to GA

Fashion-Legal adviser wows Assembly

GAG are dazzled by the legal advisers' brightly coloured tie. In light of this, we wonder whether Andrew had considered a change in Job title to Fashion

Adviser. We think Andy Jackson could take a few notes with regards to the URC Ties, and should watch out for his Job.

CHRISTIAN AID SPELLS DOOM FOR YOUTH

GAG were unnerved to hear the Worrying premonition made by the Christian Aid representative that young people toespecially should be writing their wills soon.

Do Christian aid know something we don't?!? URC Youth have taken heed and are looking to write their wills. Could any solicitors please answer a few questions such as: Can we leave our student debt in our wills?

NOW THATS WHAT I CALL GENERAL ASSEMBLY:

the new record from the URC bookshop

Fiona Bennett "I see no blue cards"

Rom and Tom "Me and my shadow"

John Bradbury "Stuck in the middle with you"

Michael Hopkins "Paint it Black (Pudding)"

Sarah Moore "Knitters are doing it for themselves"

Tessa Henry-Robinson "Leader of the pack"

Andy Jackson "Pretty in pink (shirt)"

Mark Robinson "Will you come and follow me to the Main Conference Room"

The Greenbelt Quilt "Bed of roses"

The Tellers "You're Once ... Twice ... Three times a vote count"
